Alternatives in case of non-recognition:

If you can get no or no full recognition of your qualification, you have the following possibilities:

1. Complete schooling in Germany

- at a vocational school
- at an evening school
- by distance education
- at educational providers

Evening school:

To get a school-leaving certificate for “Hauptschule”, it can take from 9 to 12 months with 2 to 3 evenings of schooling per week. To graduate from “Realschule” or grammar school it takes 2 resp. 3 years with 4 to 5 evenings of schooling per week.

2. If you have already finished a foreign vocational training and have several years of work experience: You can have your certificates of vocational training and/or proofs of work experience checked, if you have the necessary general education for graduation in Germany.
3. For some vocational trainings you do not need a recognised qualification. If you have at least two years of training in a recognised profession, you will get the leaving certificate from “Hauptschule” with the certificate from vocational school. Further information is available at vocational schools. Usually, the requirement is the leaving certificate of the 8th form of general schooling.
4. If you have completed a vocational training or have three years of work experience you can complete schooling at technical colleges or grammar schools. Sometimes course fees can be covered by financial support from the Federal Training Assistance Act - in German: “Bundesausbildungsförderungsgesetz” - BaföG. For more Information please consult with “Sächsische Bildungsagentur”.
5. There are also exams for outsiders who have not finished school. If you can pass such an external exam, you can get a school certificate. Please consult with “Sächsisches Landesamt für Schule und Bildung”.
